About the Schoolhouse Children's Museum

Step back in time and see for yourself how South Florida grew. Get a ticket at the train depot, pack up a suitcase, and take a ride on the Orange Blossom Express. Dress up like a conductor or a train passenger, ring the bell, shovel coal into the steam engine or read about trains while traveling in the passenger car library. Begin your experience at the Schoolhouse museum by relaxing in front of our state-of-the art plasma screen TV and DVD player and enjoy an exciting ten-minute introductory film about Boynton Beach History. Dozens of actual photos embedded into this refreshing, upbeat show set the tone for the fun and learning to follow in the galleries.

About the Museum of Lifestyle & Fashion History

The Museum of Lifestyle & Fashion History is a non-profit 501(c)3 history museum that was established in 1999. The museum offers retrospective and anthropology exhibits showcasing lifestyle, history, cultures, people, places, fashion trends, architecture, furnishings, locomotives and toys, and information about popular uses of artifacts by people/events of the periods of time. From 2003-2005, the Museum was located in a rent-free 8,000 square foot facility in the former Pineapple Grove Plaza located in the Pineapple Grove Main Street District of Downtown Delray Beach, FL. However, that plaza was sold and then demolished along with the entire City block where it was located. As a result, the Museum had to move. But, Museum board members are leading aggressive efforts to secure a permanent facility. However, On the 4th Saturday of each month, year-round, at 11am the Museum still conducts, without interruption, Narrated Bus Tours of Historic Delray Beach. Some of the Museum's accolades include being selected as Best New Museum in 2004 by the New Times Broward-Palm Beach Newspaper; Best Bets in Palm Beach County in 2005 by the Gold Coast Edition of Guest Informant Magazine and in 2006, the Museum's Bus Tours of Historic Delray Beach were selected as Unique Travel Gem by AAA Travel Home & Away Magazine of Mid-America. Most recently, in June 2006, the Museum's Narrated Bus Tours of Historic Delray Beach were selected as Best Tour of the Town by the The Palm Beacher & Gold Coast Magazines.
